

Health Systems Summer Institute

Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health

June 12 - 23, 2017

Learn

To measure the burden of disease

Evaluate

Health Systems Programs

Use

Holistic systems science approaches in health systems

JOHNS HOPKINS
BLOOMBERG SCHOOL of PUBLIC HEALTH

Courses offered:

- Applying Summary Measures of Population Health to Improve Health Systems
- Evaluation Plans for Primary Health Care Projects in Low- and Middle-Income Settings
- Hospital-Based Injury/Trauma Surveillance in Low- and Middle-Income Countries
- Introduction to Health-Systems Modeling
- Introduction to Household Surveys for Evaluation of Primary Health Care Programs
- Introduction to Improving Quality in Public Health Practice
- Using Qualitative Methods for Program Planning and Evaluation
- Introduction to Gender Analysis within Health Systems Research in Low- and Middle-Income Country Settings
- Managing District Health Systems in Low- and Middle-Income Countries
- Monitoring and Evaluation of Health Systems Strengthening in Low- and Middle-Income Settings
- Designing Transformative Innovation for Global Health

One- and two-week long, full and half-day courses will be available.

Health Systems Summer Institute

Health Systems Program | Department of International Health

Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health

Global Skills

Learn the principles of health systems and develop the skills necessary to assess and improve a wide range of public health systems.

Top Faculty

Leading faculty from the Bloomberg School teach all courses. Learn from their extensive experience working with ministries of health, international agencies, and local governments in countries across the world.

More Information

410-614-3948
healthsystems@jhu.edu